Expanding our home for Ansaar Academy

CONCEPTUAL DESIGN ART

Community Members,

Ansaar Academy's mission is to align with the vision of the community to establish a Full-Time KG-12 grade Islamic School providing accredited high quality and holistic education rooted with Islamic core values and principles. Our vision is to also establish a licensed Preschool program.

We are currently focusing on expanding Ansaar Academy's home and with our aspirational goals of growth, we need to build a larger facility on the premises that can accommodate these needs along with other community needs such as an elderly day care center and women center, indoor sports facility, medical and dental care, cafeteria, food pantry etc.

Using the collective ideas of many supporters in the community we are laying out this mission to be executed and completed within the next three to five years through the help of our community and the concerted efforts of the Wakf and ICIE (Islamic Center of Inland Empire) in collaboration with AAIE (Ansaar Academy of Inland Empire).

SUNDAY SCHOOL

AFTERSCHOOL

FRIDAY PROGRAM/HAFIZ UL-QURAN

...and we are vivid.
TURN THE PAGE TO FIND OUT WHY.

The moment the car parked in Knott's Berry Farm's parking lot, Adam Kaissi and other students knew that this was the day they waited anxiously for. "I enjoyed spending time with my friends," said Adam Kaissi (4). "My favorite ride was GhostRider. As with all the rides, waiting in line for almost two hours was worth it even though the rides only lasted a couple of minutes." After all the adrenaline faded away after waiting hours in line and riding the rollercoasters, the students went to Panda Express to enjoy a meal. "The rides got me tired!" said Ronnie Hafez (Youth). "I was fortunate enough to eat great food afterwards."

behavior training

Wali Abdul Hanifaz, director of Mental Health Services at Access California Services, stopped by at Ansaar Academy on December 9th to lecture about mental health. "The reason the community is in need of learning about the behavior of human beings, especially regarding children, is because parents and families, and themselves have unanswered questions," said Wali Abdul Hanifaz, the presenter of the Behavioral Health Training. "I came out to educate the Muslim community on these questions that need to be addressed."

what's for lunch?

Food of all kinds from different nationalities were brought to the tables for children to enjoy! "There was a lot of tasty food. I had rice, chicken, and cookies," Shahroz Hassan (3) said "It is one of the best events we have had during the school year."

Putting it to the test

Quran Competition 2019

After studying for weeks for the competition, the students finally put their knowledge to the test. The Quran Competition took place on February 10th, 2019. The judges were Dr. Khaled Bahjri, Sr. Marwa Thabet, Sr. Samia Abdel Aal, and Shaikh Abderrahim Belbayan. 55 students participated in the competition this year.

Seerah Competition 2019

Staying an hour after school to practice seerah was well worth it for students who participated in the Seerah Competition. The Seerah Competition organized by ICNA took place on February 16, 2019 at Masjid Maryam in Corona. 32 Students participated from Ansaar Academy and 11 Ansaar students went to the second round of Seerah Competition.

a world full of culture

On March 17th, Ansaar Academy hosted its annual culture day event. It was a successful event with students coming from all programs coming to visit people from all cultures! Booths had clothes, art, and music presented to the students. The students couldn't help but be surprised at how much is out there in the world!

a fun night at the masjid

What better way to spend the night than at the masjid? Students enjoyed themselves at the annual sleepover by making crafts and listening to an informing lecture by Br. Nusar! Then they had a restful sleep and woke up early the next day to be picked up.

A well deserved break from learning was wisely spent when the Afterschool students went to Chuck E. Cheeses in March. They had a pizza accompanied with a drink and stared at amazement when they won the ticket jackpot. Students rushed to the prize counter where they traded their tickets for amazing prizes!

ready to blead

A blood drive stopped by the masjid for people to donate blood in late 2018. From this, adults, youth, and students learned that donating blood has numerous beneficial impacts for those who require assistance and in need of blood.

a kick out of soccer

Ansaar Academy has a soccer team?? Yes, they do, and they are great at soccer! When some students first joined, they didn't know how to play soccer! But through practice, they got better at it and play soccer whenever they have free time!

store day

It's time to trade in all those tickets you gathered up over the year! What would you like? A race car set or a stuffed animal?

family fun night

What a night! This sure does make Ansaar Academy more than just a place of learning! It is also a place that encourages teamwork, communication, and friendships!

seerah class

There were two seerah classes this year! Before the Seerah Competition, students took a class to prepare for it from the weekly 6-7pm class. The same class continued after the competition to go more in depth in the curriculum.

●●●●● yearbook contests

meet the characters

Students had the opportunity to draw a character reflecting on good Muslim morals to appear in this year's yearbook.

this is Ansaar

He like to ride his bike. He is smart and likes to read. His favorite food is Pizza and his favorite subject is Quran. He helps out his neighbor, and cares for his friends.

this is Adam.

He is in fourth grade. He likes to play ping-pong. My favorite food is pasta. My favorite subjects are math and Islamic Studies, but I also love to read and memorize Quran.

-Adam Kaissi (4)

Islam essay contest

Along with the character contest, students also had the opportunity to write an essay on any subject in Islam or about why they are proud to be a Muslim.

why i'm proud to be a Muslim

by: Adam Kaissi (4)

I am proud to be a Muslim for several reasons. I enjoy being a Muslim, because I could follow the religious steps we learn at the masjid. I also enjoy being respected as a Muslim by friends and teachers in public communities. Furthermore, being a Muslim allows me to have many Muslim friends that I see at the Masjid. Also, I don't have to choose between having Muslim or non-Muslim friends. In conclusion, being a Muslim is enjoyable and knowledgeable.

prophet Noah

by: Shahroz Hassan (3)

I like Islam, because I get to learn about the past about prophets believing in Allah. The story I like is the prophet Noah building a boat, saving believers and animals. Some of the disbelievers laughed at prophet Noah for building the ship so they did not go on the ship. Prophet Noah didn't let his father on the ship, because he was not a believer, and the boat went on. Then a flood occurred, and all the people thanked Noah. The boat was never found.

SAT controversy

Huzail Hassan (Youth) along with a majority of rising Juniors in High School felt the sweat pouring off of them as they just completed the August 2018 SAT. That all changed when Hassan and other students discovered the test was the same exact exam given to international students in October 2017. He and the rest of Youth Group decided to call numerous news hotlines to get this issue known. The Youth Group was interviewed by the L.A. Times and NBC News. "They keep saying we're not going to let this happen again, and yet they reused a test, Hassan told L.A. Times. Diana Dahlan (Youth) was also interviewed by the L.A. Times. "As a senior in high school the experience of constantly trying to be more involved and better than the next person is already challenging," Dahlan told L.A. Times. On September 3rd, 2018, Huzail Hassan, Salamah Salamah (Youth), and Diana Dahlan were interviewed by NBC News and appeared on NBC 4 later that day.

homeless w♀mens hygiene drive

After seeing Youtube videos of the horrors homeless women have to deal with in terms of hygiene, Lulah (11) and Aissatou Balde (12) decided to start Take Care, an organization aimed to help these women by collecting hygiene products. "Over the summer, we collected donations in order to fund our organization," said L. Balde. Promoting the organization," said L. Balde. Promoting the organization through social media helped the group get in contact with other organizations. "We got in contact with Key Club and other clubs at our school as well," said A. Balde.

basketball tournament

Thump! Thump! The basketball hits the ground just before it is snatched by the other team! The audience watches in awe as the two teams struggle to win. "I was excited to see the teams play and who would win," said Adam Omarbasha (7). The Basketball Tournament was one of the many events the Youth Group organizes in order to encourage students to be more involved in their community. "Personally, I learned that Ansaar Academy is not only a place to further your Islamic understanding, but a place that encourages teamwork and social bonding," said Mohammed Maarouf (Youth). Girls in the Youth Group participated as well. "We usually play soccer. I think in basketball, shooting is better. We went out there and tried our best. I would prefer a soccer game, but basketball was a nice experience," said Suzie Dahlan.

youth interfaith event

It was unexpected when it was announced that the students could bring their friends to the masjid as part of the Youth Interfaith Event. Students took advantage of this opportunity to show their friends at high school what Islam is all about. A lecture by Tahil Sharma kicked off the event. After an informing lecture, the group headed down to the old Masjid where they encountered a huge buffet with all kinds of food for them and their friends.
